

Spend a week on Mallard Island

August 17-23, 2025

Stewards of the Wilderness is a weeklong program focused on sustainable living, Anishinaabe culture, and Ernest Oberholtzer.

Travel to the Island is by boat and accommodations are rustic buildings scattered across the island. Activities include study and discussion with other participants, work projects to improve the island, short hikes and paddles, personal time, and shared meals.

The program is free except for transportation to International Falls, Minnesota, food for one communal meal, and your own breakfast and lunch food.

Applications due June 15, 2025.

For more details see,
<https://eober.org/mallard-island/stewards-of-the-wilderness/>